

I had the privilege of having Big Band Theory play at our Corporate Winter Party this past weekend (Feb 1, 2020). During the entire process, from the beginning of our correspondence nearly a year before the event, to the end of the evening they were exceptionally professional and courteous. On top of that, they are extremely talented musicians. Almost every guest commented to me how incredible the band was.

I stumbled on this group's website almost by chance while searching for a band for our Roarin' 20's themed party. Andy, who handles the booking and correspondence, was always responsive and available to answer questions and hammer down little details in the months leading up to the party. A huge thank you to Andy!

During the cocktail hour and through dinner the 5 piece band played mellow instrumentals while guests mingled and ate. After dinner we were treated to a true taste of a Big Band (17 piece brass band) that genuinely took us back to the 1920's.

I feel very fortunate to have had Big Band Theory play at our Winter Party and I wholeheartedly recommend them for whatever occasion you may have!
